

Brighter Futures

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Robin Smith

Name and role:

Robin Smith, Chief of Police for the States of Jersey Police

Professional background:

With more than 40 years of policing experience, Robin Smith leads the States of Jersey Police with responsibility for public protection, crime prevention, and safeguarding across the Island. He has held senior leadership roles in UK forces including Sussex, Surrey, and the British Transport Police, bringing substantial operational, organisational change, and public safety expertise to his work in Jersey. His experience includes counter-terrorism, major incident command, crisis management and partnership-driven approaches to community safety.

Speakers Perspective on why early intervention matters:

Early intervention matters because reducing risk at the earliest point not only protects individuals and families but also prevents escalation into complex harm and demand on policing, public services, and the wider community.

Together, we are creating Brighter Futures for families in Jersey.
